Educational Background

I studied Environmental Science at Emory University and graduated in the spring of 2014. I served as voting member of the University Senate Faculty Subcommittee on the Environment, paid intern in the Emory University Office of Sustainable Initiatives, and Student Adviser to the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. I completed thesis projects on Adaptive Management and Land Use. I am currently an active member of the Resiliency Hub, a Greater Portland permaculture initiative.

State interest or reason for wanting to serve I believe South Portland can serve as a model for responsible community development. I believe this committee could greatly improve the quality of life for the human and non-human citizens of South Portland. I am excited about the opportunity to collaborate with the South Portland community to 'green' city operations.
